News Release

April 1, 2009

For immediate release

Southeastern Community College has been named a provider of nursing continuing education by the North Carolina Nurses Association, giving nurses a new opportunity to take approved professional development courses close to home at convenient times and places.

The last class for spring 2009 will be Mentor Training (5 contact hours), which will be taught on Saturday, April 18 from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at SCC in T-Building, Room 120. A 30-minute lunch break is included. Al West is the instructor.

This class is designed to help current nursing staff who will serve as mentors to focus on practices to identify and improve those traits that will enable them to develop critical thinking skills. Additional emphasis will be directed toward effective ways to use these skills in the process of mentoring senior level associate degree nursing students who are being assimilated into staffing situations on assigned units.

Tuition for this class is $55. There is no tuition fee for students who you have already attended one of the classes previously offered during the spring 2009 semester.

Pre-register for this course by contacting Teresa Triplett at 642-7141, ext. 318 or at ttriplett@scnc.edu.

For more information on class content, contact Al West, SCC Nursing Faculty member, at 642-7141, ext. 293.

This continuing nursing education was approved by the North Carolina Nurses Association, an accredited approver by the American Nurses Credentialing Center's Commission on Accreditation.
